

2019 Entrepreneur of the Year

The Entrepreneur of the Year award was established by BioCT and Shipman and Goodwin to acknowledge the importance of showcasing unique accomplishments of biotech entrepreneurs in our community. We recognize individuals who are imaginative, passionate and game-changers in Connecticut bioscience and whose accomplishments would be heralded outside of Connecticut.

Selection Criteria

He or she is an outstanding innovator who has:

1. demonstrated leadership in advancing the pursuit of scientific breakthroughs applied to real-world problems;
2. built and funded a sustainable/disruptive business model for a company based in information technology, life, medical devices or healthcare sciences;
3. made exceptional contributions to the growth of Connecticut's bioscience cluster;
4. demonstrated collegiality, openness to mentoring, sharing of experiences and;
5. whose contribution is visible outside of Connecticut

Nomination Process

BioCT accepts nominations for the Award through November 22nd. If you know an innovator who meets the criteria, kindly submit her/his name, professional affiliation and some biographical information along with your contact information and a brief statement about why your nominee should be considered for the award to bioct@bioct.org. You can use the flipside of this flyer and/or download a form on the BioCT website.

Nominees will be reviewed by a panel of judges who meet in the late fall to discuss submissions and make a final selection.

The Entrepreneur of the Year will be recognized at BioCT's Annual Holiday Party on Dec 10th at Alexion in New Haven.
